

Mile High Health Alliance

AFFILIATE MEMBER PROGRAM

The Affiliate Member Program of the Mile High Health Alliance was established to provide businesses and organizations the opportunity to be informed and involved in transforming the health system in Denver.

The Mile High Health Alliance ("MHHA") was established in 2015 to fulfill an important goal in Denver's first Community Health Improvement Plan: create an alliance of multi-sector organizations to increase access to care, better coordinate health care services, and decrease health care costs.

With "Achieving Better Health Through Collaboration" as our mission, current programs address community-identified barriers and needs. MHHA convenes stakeholders from physical health care, behavioral health care, public health, local government, social and community services agencies and others committed to collaboratively solving challenges to access to care and better health for Denver residents. Each of MHHA's priorities has an associated work group that is led by a representative from member organizations and supported by MHHA staff.

MHHA also reserves capacity to identify and respond to emerging issues allowing us to nimbly address the needs of our members and innovate to solve new challenges affecting residents of Denver.

MHHA is focused on changing and coordinating efforts across organizations and sectors so that every Denver resident has the opportunity to live their healthiest life.
